For the 1.4 billion people who live below the World Bank's miserly $1.25 per day poverty line a 75 percent price cut is very unlikely to make much of a difference.

Inadequate procedures when checking systems for functionality can lead to an organization failing an inspection and being out of compliance.

These conditions are more common among the elderly, debilitated patients, smokers, alcoholics, those on long-term corticosteroids and this with a poor general health status.
